TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1835.

Washington, Thursday, Feb. 12, 1835.

This day was marked by a grand display in the Senate, and by a corresponding grand disappointment.—You are aware that this was the day assigned for gravely debating and pressing the bill to regulate the deposits of the public money in the State Banks, in which farce Mr Calhoun was to take the lead. I call it a farce, for who can recur to the panic speeches of Messrs Webster, Southard, Calhoun and Bibb, of last session, when they determined to leave the public money in the "irresponsible hands of a despot," and then turn to the bill these very men are now pressing for the purpose of reducing executive patronage? without a struggle to suppress their risible emotions. Well, it was to witness the first act of this farce that the crowd, chiefly ladies, (as it should be at such amusing scenes) assembled to day. But, as ill luck would have it, a bill regulating the number and pay of the U. S. Custom House officers was among the business not disposed of, and as the day wore away in the course of its examination, the crowd vanished, and at half past three o'clock, the Lion of the South was obliged to postpone the amusement till to-morrow, when the curtain will rise precisely at one o'clock. We shall then see the talent of these Roscins in comedy—last year they performed tragedy.—But Col. Benton introduced this subject to the public the other day, when it made its first appearance, in such a way as will enable them to understand it, and I think I may safely predict that he will come in at the falling of the curtain and deliver the epilogue.

This bill to regulate the deposits in the State Banks will, therefore, pass in some shape, since the honorable majority in the Senate have turned to the right about and are now willing to do what the administration desire, place the public money "under the control of the law." For the purpose of effecting this grand object, the House have been diligently employed in endeavoring to perfect a bill. To-day they were in session from eleven to six o'clock upon the subject, and there can be no doubt it will pass by a majority of fifteen or twenty votes, to-morrow or next day. After the passage of the Custom House bill in the Senate, there being no further attraction there, I turned my attention to the House, and found Mr Everett, of your State, holding forth upon the deposit bill, and I was very much pleased as well as surprised at the justness and liberality of that part of his remarks which first struck my ear. He said he had no doubt that the regulation and keeping of the public monies in their present depositories was much more irksome and laborious to the officers of government, than was compensated for by the patronage it gave them, and he had no doubt they felt desirous of placing the deposits under the operation of the law. This sentiment would have excommunicated him from the whig ranks a year ago.

An amendment was then adopted requiring the deposit Banks to have an amount of specie on hand equal to one-fifth of their public and private deposits together with their notes in circulation. I think too, the bill will pass the House requiring the Banks to pay two per cent. for the use of the public monies.

Massachusetts Democracy.—In no portion of the Union has Democracy had more to contend with for the past ten years than in this State. In 1828, the votes for the Democratic Elector of President and Vice, at large, stood as follows:—for the Hon. NATHAN WILLIS, 6012—Hon. DAVID HENSHAW, 6016. At the State Election, last Fall, the Democratic candidate for Governor, the Hon. MARCUS MORTON, received 20,000 votes; thus it will be seen, that our party has increased two-thirds within six years. Its increase in this city is also very encouraging, and has been equally as great as in the other portions of the State. In 1828, the Democrats in Boston cast about 700 votes—at the last election, upwards of 2000. When it is remembered that Boston is the seat of the opposition—where their power is centered—where their wealth and their influence is immense, and the unbounded exertions they use—of persuasion—intimidation—bribery, and all the means that their ingenuity can invent to oppress their opponents, it is remarkable that we have been enabled to accomplish as much here as has been effected in other portions of the Commonwealth, where the causes that have weighed down Democracy in the city could not operate against our friends. The inhabitants of the country are naturally more Democratic in their feelings than those of the city—they are much less under the influence of wealth, and hence, are more honest and independent in forming and expressing their opinions, than those whose business and prospects can be clouded or brightened by the frown or smile of those about them. The darkest period in the history of our party is past—its power is more rapidly increasing at the present moment than at any former time—many who stood with folded arms when its existence was threatened, and maintained only by the most patriotic, devoted, and watchful labor—at all risk, and at all hazard—now, seeing it past all peril, and on its triumphant march, will fall in and shout the loudest. At this we are rejoiced—it is the surest evidence of our approaching success, for it shows that those who have stood watching the battle while it was doubtful, have made up their minds how the contest is to end, and have resolved to be on the strong side. We applaud their sagacity, and are happy to witness their decision—we want all the aid we can get—there is work enough for all the new recruits and twenty times their number.—Massachusetts has grown old in political sin.—The fang of the aristocracy have penetrated her vitals—her marks may be traced in every portion of her system, and long and arduous will be the labor of rescuing her completely from the grasp of those who now control her destinies. This is the great end desired by all honest Democrats, and to accomplish this will all their efforts be directed. He who neglects the great work, for the purpose of stirring up strife, or contents himself by boasting of his own merits instead of laboring to promote the general good of Democracy, is an enemy to the cause; and, although perhaps too contemptible to excite any emotion except that disgust which brawling hypocrisy creates in every honest bosom, should be properly appreciated.

"Junius" shall appear soon.

We mentioned on Saturday, that Mr. Brown, late Chief Clerk in the Post Office Department, had published in the Washington Globe, a statement in reply to the charges made against him by the majority of the Post Office Committee of the Senate. This statement is conclusive as to Mr Brown's entire innocence of the misdemeanor charged upon him, and shows that men in high stations will sometimes lend their names and their influence, to aid in the propagation of falsehood and error. Mr Brown's statement occupies so much room that we find it impracticable to re-publish it entire. The following synopsis of it is from the Baltimore Republican.

"Mr O. B. Brown.—The Globe of Tuesday last contains a statement by Mr O. B. Brown, the late Chief Clerk in the Post Office Department, in reply to the charges against him contained in the Report of the majority of the Post Office Committee, and which have been made the foundation of so much vindictive abuse by the opposition presses, and according to our judgment he has not only succeeded in proving most conclusively and satisfactorily his entire innocence of any criminal or improper design in any of the transactions which have been paraded before the public, with so much sounding of trumpets and blowing of horns against him, but that the committee have been guilty of the most palpable misrepresentation of facts, the assertion of the most unqualified and barefaced falsehoods, and have displayed throughout a most malignant spirit, and a determination to destroy, for political purposes, the characters of men, from a mere feeling of resentment against them on account of their being politically friendly to an individual to whom they are opposed, and whom it is their desire to render odious to the people of the United States. He has noticed the various allegations against him contained in the report, to each of which he has given very full, clear and explicit answers, which carry upon their face plain indications of their sincerity and truth, and show that in every particular the committee have employed their utmost ingenuity to pervert and misrepresent the circumstances, with the view of making it appear that they were the result of corrupt motives and criminal designs, in order to sustain their general charge of dishonesty in the Head of the Department and in the principal officers under him.

In one case it appears that he had borrowed the sum of $3000, with which he purchased a house in Washington, from an individual who happened to be a mail contractor, which they have construed into an accommodation in consideration for favors rendered by him to the contractor; whereas it appears to have had no kind of connexion with the affairs of the office, and was nothing more than an ordinary transaction between two individuals, one of which had occasion to use a sum of money which the other was disposed to loan. Considering the relation in which Mr Brown stood as an officer in the Post Office Department with the individual from whom he borrowed the money, it was, perhaps, imprudent to subject himself to the liability of an imputation of being influenced in his official intercourse with that individual; but that there was no imprudent design in the matter, and that he did not conceive at the time that there was any impropriety in the transaction appears to us to be as perfectly manifest as that any merchant, or other individual, who is in want of money for a particular purpose, and is willing to obtain it from any one who is disposed to loan it, would not imagine that there is any impropriety in his borrowing it, or in the other's loaning it.

Another case is that of his having loaned, to a contractor a sum of money belonging to another individual, for whom he was acting as an agent, and who had desired that it might be invested in order that it might draw an interest; and although it was made apparent to the committee that it had no connection with the business of the Department, that he had no interest in the matter, that it had not produced for him the profit of a cent, and had not occasioned to the Department the loss of a cent, yet they have made it the ground of a serious charge against him, and adduced it as an evidence of corruption, and an extravagant expenditure of the public money without any adequate services to the public.

Another charge against him is that he had money deposited in the Bank of Maryland, of his own, to the amount of $2000, at the time of its failure, and that as the Department was indebted to the Bank to a much larger amount, he transferred it to the certificate, after the failure of the Bank, and made it, as far as it would go, an offset against the claim of the Bank upon the Department. These facts are admitted; but it seems that the committee have purposely suppressed the most important facts in relation to the matter, which are, that he intended to withdraw his own money previous to the failure of the Bank, but was advised, and with the knowledge and approbation of the Post Master General, agreed to let it remain as an offset against the debt due by that Department to the Bank, and by so doing, rendered, at the time, a service to the former. Consequently it would appear that the certificate of deposit was transferred, in fact, though not in form previous to the failure, and neither the Department nor any person or persons have lost a single cent by the circumstance.

He is censured for making certain alterations in the Books of the Department during the progress of the investigation by the committee; but it seems that he did not make the alterations attributed to him, and according to our apprehension, so far from there being any impropriety in the alterations being made, it was perfectly proper that it should be done, and that it would have been a neglect of duty if it had been omitted. It seems that while the committee were examining into a particular matter it was discovered that the draft of one individual had been erroneously charged to another, and the entry was directed to be so altered as to correspond with the fact, and as soon as it was done the committee were informed of the circumstances that the error had been discovered, that the correction had been made, and the names of the clerks were stated to them.—Upon what ground this circumstance can be objected to, or what evidence it can be supposed to afford of corruption or impropriety, we are at a loss to perceive or imagine.

It seems that the private transactions of the persons connected with the Department, and particularly of Mr Brown, have been pried into by the committee with all the vigilance and secrecy which were employed by the French police officers during the reign of terror, without permitting him to know that he was to be assailed, until the report was laid before the nation and the world, in which they have arrayed against him numerous charges founded upon the greatest misrepresentation of facts where there are any thing like facts for them to rest upon, and upon statements in some instances which are totally false, and that they have thereby attempted to destroy his reputation, without affording him the smallest opportunity to make a defence, while they have spread their slander over the whole country, and enabled all their partizans who have the control of purses to complete the work of defamation which they have commenced.

In view of this matter, and other circumstances which have appeared in the conduct of the majority of the Post Office Committee, it really appears to us that they have been governed by the most black hearted malice, and have rendered themselves totally undeserving of public confidence or private respect. And we firmly and sincerely believe that the day is not far distant when their conduct in this business will be pointed to as a specimen of the ill effects which result from a malignant party feeling of hostility towards particular men, and as a warning to others not to suffer their political animosity to carry them beyond the bounds of reason, prudence and propriety.

Mr Jarvis, member of Congress from Maine, recently challenged Mr Smith, his colleague. Mr S. refused to accept the challenge.

CHARLESTOWN BRANCH RAILROAD.

To the Editors of the Boston Morning Post—

Gentlemen—I find a great number of gentlemen in Charlestown much in favor of the Branch of the Lowell Railroad from East Cambridge to Charlestown, as stated in the petition and plan now before the Legislature of Massachusetts. It appears to them that it will be of great advantage to Charlestown and the public. The distance is short of a mile, three-fourths of which is well calculated for wharves for vessels of the largest class. The waters from Charles River Bridge to the Navy Yard are also as good, to say the least, as any in the United States for vessels of the same class. The waters above Charles and Warren Bridges are well calculated for coasting vessels of every kind.

If we should succeed in getting this branch from the Lowell Railroad in East Cambridge, it is expected that the Worcester Railroad will also run a branch from that place to their Railroad at the corner of Brighton. The distance is a mile or more less to Charlestown from said corner at Brighton, than it is to their landing at South Cove, so called. It is presumed, then, that they will avail themselves of the great advantage of the Charlestown waters.

If you will examine the landing at Boston Mill Pond of the Lowell Railroad, and the landing of the Worcester Railroad at South Cove, you will see that no foreign vessels of large size can go to those places, and be satisfied that the Charlestown waters have every advantage over them. You will see that all large vessels are leaving said shoal waters of Boston, and coming to the North part of Boston, where the waters are deep and similar to the waters of Charlestown. Every gentleman must see the great advantage said branches will be to Charlestown.

But we must be united and exert ourselves in Charlestown, if we expect this great object to be accomplished. It will be of no use for us to say any longer, if we have these great natural advantages of water, &c., that strangers will come and improve them. Can we expect gentlemen will leave their own towns and land speculations to come and build up Charlestown? If we do, we must wait till East Boston and all the islands in Boston harbor are fully settled, and East Cambridge, and all the marshes in Roxbury, &c.

I understand we are to meet with opposition from the landholders on Mill Pond, in Boston. But it appears to me impossible that the Legislature of Massachusetts can deny us the right to join said Railroad at East Cambridge. This town has, say 12,000 inhabitants, and had of course a great part of the natural travel of the back country. That will now be taken from us on said Railroads.

It is important that our citizens exert themselves, and that our representatives prepare themselves to meet any opposition that may come against said branches. And if owners of lands, flats, &c. will be willing to sell or turn them into the concern at fair prices, and the citizens will exert themselves, this great object will be accomplished, and Charlestown will receive the natural advantages that belong to it.

Latest from Europe.—By the packet ship England, Capt. Maxwell, advices are received from Liverpool to Jan. 11th. The President's Message arrived in London on the 9th, by the Packet ship Independence.—The Liverpool Chronicle invites particular attention to that part of it which relates to France, and heads the paragraph on the subject "War with France." There is no news of the reception of the Message in France. The Reformers were carrying all before them in England at the elections which were going on. In London, the Whig majority was 2,000. The Times newspaper gives up the Peel Ministry. The Liverpool Cotton market exhibited some vigor after the return of stock but buyers did not purchase largely. The sales of the week, ending 9th January, were 16,760 bales. Imports 2,624 bales. Market closed dull.—Jour. Com.

Bank of Missouri.—A bill has been reported in the Legislature of Missouri for the incorporation of a Bank in that State with a capital of $1,000,000. A present we believe there is not a Bank in the State except the U. S. Branch at St. Louis. The new Bank, as the bill now stands, cannot issue notes of a less denomination than $5 dollars, and after 1st Jan. 1839, none under $10. Half the Stock is to be owned by the State Stockholders individually liable for all losses, in proportion to their stock respectively. Bank to pay bonus to the State of 1-2 of 1 per cent. annually on individual stock. Issues never to be double the amount of capital stock. Bank may receive 6 per cent. for discounts not having more than 90 days to run; over 90, and less than 6 months, 7 per cent. Over 6 months, 8 per cent.—N. Y. J. Com.

MUNICIPAL COURT.

Commonwealth vs. Samuel Wheelwright.—The Defendant in this case, was indicted for an attempt to bribe Mr Levi KELLY, to vote for a certain "partizan ticket," called the "Whig Ticket," "contrary to his conscience." The indictment grew out of a disclosure which took place in the Municipal Court, on the 12th of January, during the trial of Aglar et al., for an illegal attempt to vote, in which Mr Kelly was a witness. The particulars of that development, and its connexion with the present prosecution, may be clearly understood from the following extract from the Report of that Trial, in the Morning Post of Tuesday, January 13, viz:—

"Levi Kelly. * * * * * A MAN OFFERED ME NINE SHILLINGS, IF I WOULD VOTE THE WHIG TICKET."

Upon this singular disclosure, Mr Hallett asked the witness what it was that offered him nine shillings to vote the Whig ticket—but the question was objected to by Mr Parker, and overruled peremptorily by Judge Thatcher, who informed the witness that it was his duty to complain before the Grand Jury. After some conversation between Messrs Parker and Hallett, the latter called upon the former to take notice, as a public prosecutor, of the attempt to bribe, sworn to by the witness. Mr Parker accordingly moved that Levi Kelly be ordered to recognize, to appear before the Grand Jury, and give information of all instances of attempts of bribery and interference with the purity and freedom of elections—and Judge Thatcher directed him to recognize in the sum of $50, to appear before the Grand Jury 14 February."

The examination of witnesses on the part of the prosecution commenced by calling to the stand—

Levi Kelly.—I have been an inhabitant of Boston 6 years—live in Ward 9—my name was on the Ward List, for the election of November 10—was at work in Mr Bradley's a few days, a week before the election—Mr Wheelwright came in and asked for me—none of my name was on the list—I asked him what he wished—he said his brother told him that my name was not on the list, and that I should like to have it put on—I said I was much obliged to him, but that it was on—he then said, if it was not, he should like to have it put on, provided I would vote for the Whig ticket—I told him if my name was not on, I should not vote his ticket—I told him I was not for sale—that if I was going to sell myself I should want to have more than nine shillings. He afterwards said, that any of the Custom House Officers would pay my taxes, if he would vote their ticket—I told him I did not know whether they would, or would not.

Question.—Did Mr Samuel Wheelwright, jr. offer to pay you money for you, if you would vote for the Whig ticket?

Kelly.—He offered to pay my taxes, if I'd vote the Whig ticket.

I was a witness in a former case, and said I had been offered nine shillings to vote—I should not have made the statement if I had thought it would have led to the indictment of Mr Wheelwright.

Cross ex.—I do say that I was offered nine shillings to pay my taxes, if I would vote the Whig ticket—I did not say it was Samuel Wheelwright, jr. who offered me the money, in Mr Bradley's cellar. It was Albert Wheelwright who offered it—Mr Samuel Wheelwright, jr. offered to pay my poll tax, if I would vote the Whig ticket. On the trial of Mr Aglar, I said that a man offered me 9 shillings if I would vote the Whig ticket—I did not mean Samuel Wheelwright, jr., but Albert Wheelwright, who offered the money.—Samuel Wheelwright, jr. offered to pay my poll tax, if I would vote for the Whig ticket.

Mr Albert Wheelwright met me on India wharf before the election, and he asked me if my name was on the list—I said I did not know, but he told me he had paid me to be on the list. Young Men's Committee had a fund to pay the taxes of the men who would vote the Whig ticket—I think he said the Young Men's Committee had the fund—it might have been the Young Men's Society—I said to him—"Well, go ahead?" which was all I said—I would be certain, but I said Yes, he might pay my taxes, but do not remember before the election—I remember saying, "Well, go ahead"—when I had the conversation in Bradley's cellar with Samuel W. Jr. my employer and two others were present—the conversation I had with Alfred or Albert Wheelwright, I supposed was joking.

In answer to Judge Thatcher—the witness answered distinctly, Al. Wheelwright offered to pay 9 shillings, and I would vote the Whig ticket; and that Samuel W. offered to pay my tax, if I would vote the Whig ticket, or "their ticket." I know it was the Whig ticket that he wanted me to vote, and he said the Whig ticket, I'm pretty certain. Samuel W. Jr. said he should like to have my name on the list, and pay my taxes, provided I would vote the Whig ticket—that was the only offer S. W. made me in Bradley's cellar.

David G. Hall.—Was in Bradley's cellar—Samuel Wheelwright came in—he said to Kelly, "I understand you will put in a vote, if you can get your name put on the list—I suppose you wish me to put in a Whig vote, but I don't belong to that party"—I then went to hooping casks, and heard no more of the conversation.

Alfred Wheelwright.—Am brother of defendant, S. Wheelwright, and was a member of the Young Men's Committee—I saw Kelly a fortnight before the election, at work at coopers—asked what ticket he was going to vote—he said he would vote the whig ticket, if I would pay his taxes—he said they were only nine shillings, and he could not afford to pay them himself—I told him, as I was not a voter, I could not pay his taxes, but I would see my brother, and see what he said—I did, and my brother told me to tell him to go to the whig head quarters, at the Sun Tavern, in Ward 9—I met Kelly a few days after, and told him what my brother said—Kelly replied, that there would be so many there he did not care about going—I told him I would see my brother again—he did, and he said he would see Kelly himself—he said the statement was made in Court, and that he could not help saying it—that he was obliged to bring it out in the evidence—he gave me to understand, that he alluded to me and not to my brother, and made an apology for bringing it out.

Judge Thatcher, after recapitulating the evidence, put it to jury, whether to propose to a voter to pay his taxes, to qualify him to vote, would be an attempt to bribe him to vote against his conscience, as charged in the indictment.

The jury, after being out a few minutes, returned a verdict of NOT GUILTY.

Counsel for the Defendant, Robert C. Wintrop and Edward D. Sohier, Esquires.

Libel Suit.—The Court was occupied all the afternoon, with the case of Mr Edward C. Purdy, editor of the Boston Whig who was indicted for publishing a libel in the Lowell Bulletin, on Mr Horatio Hastings Weld, Editor of the New England Galaxy. The question of the truth or falsehood of the publication was not entered into, and the case turned upon the identity of the alleged libel, which was so imperfectly established, that the jury returned a verdict of not guilty without leaving their seats. A host of witnesses from Lowell and elsewhere were summoned on both sides, but were not examined.

Store-breaking.—Yesterday morning, the W. I goods store of Messrs Smith & Brooks, No. 58 Commercial street, was discovered to have been feloniously entered by some villains, after the close of the store on Saturday evening, by prying open a shutter at the rear of the store. About $5 in change, and a small quantity of tea and cloves is all that appears to have been taken.—Briggs.

Buffalo Theatre.—The ceremony of laying the corner stone of Mr Duffy's Theatre, took place on the 1st inst. A handsome silver plate, with the following inscription—"Buffalo Theatre, founded by William Duffy, January 31, 1835. L. Howard, master builder: in presence of E. Johnson, Mayor, and Common Council," was presented by the mayor to the master builder, together with copies of the daily and weekly papers of the city, directing him to deposit them beneath the corner stone of the edifice.

Judge Mellen lately retired from the office of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Maine, having arrived at the constitutional limit of age for that station, his 70th year. A resolve, giving him his pay for the quarter which had commenced on his retiring, was passed by the Senate, but negatived by the House—years 30, says 124!

The Washington correspondent of Mr Hudson, of the Merchants Reading Room, says, "Mr Pickett, late of the Legation to Colombia, has been appointed Superintendent of the Patent Office, vice Dr Craig, removed."

A fatal rencontre took place in the streets of Knoxville, Tenn. on the 25th ult. between Daniel Campbell and U. D. Slater. Slater was first wounded with a knife, upon which he drew a pistol, and shot Campbell dead.

Literary.—Mr Charles De Behr, of N. Y. has just published the first volume of the "Life of the Emperor Napoleon," by our countryman, H. Lee.

WINSLOW BLUES—ATTENTION!—Blues—you are requested to meet at Concert Hall THIS EVENING, 17th, at 7 o'clock. The attendance of every member (active and fine) is requested, as business of importance will come before them.

CONGRESS.

In the House of Representatives, on Friday, Mr Connor, from the select committee appointed at the last session to examine into and report the situation of the Post Office Department, made a detailed report. Mr C. moved that the report be laid upon the table, and printed. Mr Garland asked for the reading of the report. Mr Connor had no objection, but the report was lengthy, and would probably be followed by a counter one of equal length. Mr Garland withdrew his motion. The report and documents were then ordered to be printed. Mr E. Whittlesey, from the minority of the committee, presented the views of the minority in a separate report—which was laid on the table, and ordered to be printed. Mr Briggs moved to print 25,000 extra copies of each report, together with the documents. Mr Speight suggested 10,000 copies. The motion, under the rule, lies over one day.

Mr Gilmer's resolutions, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, in relation to the election of President and Vice President, and for other purposes, were taken up, read a second time, and, on motion of Mr Gilmer, their further consideration was postponed to Thursday next, and made the special order for that day.

A resolution, making Mr Polk's bill regulating the deposits of the public money in the State Banks, the standing order of the day, for this day at 1 o'clock, and in each succeeding day at 12 o'clock, Saturday excepted, until disposed of, and that until the hour of 12 o'clock on each day, the business of the House shall proceed in the order prescribed by the rules of the House, was rejected.

TAKE NOTICE.—TO WILLIAM H. GARDNER,
Esquire, Lawyer, and partner with Franklin Dexter, now a member of the Senate, and Attorney to the Heirs of John &
Richd Codman:—

Seeing in the Post and other newspapers, on Monday, 9th
Feb 1855, an advertisement signed by you, cautioning all persons against believing a statement made by William Vans, under the head of a petition "that is utterly false and unfounded"—my answer to this assertion is—go into a Court of Justice, and let a Jury say if John & Richard Codman were not copartners in their transactions with me—that I have petitioned the Legislature to grant that privilege for more than twenty years —and one third of this time the House were almost unanimous in my favor; the Senate only, refusing to concur.

These facts certified by Hon George Blake, District Attorney—Dan'l Davis, late Solicitor General, and Augustus Peabody, who all say they have seen judgments rendered in France, condemning John & Richard Codman as copartners, to pay my demand, that now amounts to 300,000 dollars.

These facts you MUST have known—which shows that there is not a sentence of truth in your statement.
